SEEK LOWER ASSESSMENTS

FARM BUREAU AT WORK ON TAXATION PROGRAM.

TO MEET WITH COURT

Will Recommend That Valuations for Tax Purposes In Nodaway County Be Reduced—Cites Figures.

An effort to equalize farm assessments in Nodaway County in line with values placed on town property and public utilities is under way by representatives of the farm bureau in cooperation with the state-wide program of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation.

Representatives of the Nodaway County organization will meet with the county court Tuesday and point out reasons why farm assessments should be lowered in the same ratio with other property.

It is contended that during the last twelve years railroad assessments in Nodaway County have been increased 190 per cent, town and city lost 208 per cent, and farm lands 443 per cent.

In 1911, according to a statement by the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation, railroads in Nodaway County were assessed at $12,363.47 per mile. In 1923, this assessment was increased to $35,860.82, according to the figures.

Average town and city lots were assessed at $223.07 in 1913 and in 1923 the valuation was placed at $688.44.

The average acre of farm land in 1913 was assessed at $15.58 but in 1923 its valuation had been increased to $84.68, according to the statement by the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation.

In Nodaway County it is said that farmers pay approximately 80 per cent of the total taxes paid by the owners of the three classes of real estate—city property, public utilities and farm lands.

Urges Decrease.

It is recommended that valuation of farm lands in Nodaway County be reduced 7½ per cent so that the assessed valuation of the average acre, as of June 1, 1924, be reduced from $84.34 to $78.02, and that the average town lot be increased in valuation for assessment purposes 7½ per cent in order that these two classes of property be assessed on a more equitable basis.

The farm bureau recommends further that the assessed valuation of mules be reduced 15 per cent from $61.23, and the average head of cattle 5 per cent from $34.52, and the average sheep 10 per cent from $4.82.

Would Tax "Hidden Wealth."

It is recommended further by the farm bureau that all taxable intangibles be put on the assessors' books. It is contended that there are hundreds of thousands of dollars of recorded mortgages, both real estate and chattel in Nodaway County that are not on the tax books and thus escape taxation entirely.

For the last eighteen months the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation has been working on the farmers' tax problem. Most of the efforts have been confined to the assessed valuations of real estate and livestock, for the great bulk of farmer-owned property is found in these classes.

Lower Assessments.

As a result of the studies and hearings before the state tax commission in co-operation with county farm bureaus, farm valuations for assessment purposes have been reduced.

The total reduction in assessed valuation of farm lands in Missouri is $24,615,298 of which $18,192,859 was made in the fifty-seven farm bureau counties and only $6,422,439 in the fifty-seven non-farm bureau counties. The reduction on livestock is $8,381,272 or a total of $32,996,570 reduction on farmer-owned property.

Predict Tire Price Increase in London

Casings To Be Increased 15 Per Cent and Inner Tubes From 20 to 25 Per Cent.

London, Aug. 1.—Tire casings will be increased 15 per cent and inner tubes from 20 to 25 per cent here early next week, according to unofficial prediction today.

The proposed increases are due to the rubber shortage which has caused spectacular movement on the rubber market the last few days.

Contract Was Let to Atkinson Co.

Among the contracts let yesterday by the State Highway Commission was the Maryville-Pickering road in Nodaway County to C. H. Atkinson Paving Company, Watertown, S. D., for $81,909, the state to furnish $47,172 in materials. This road is to be only 9 feet wide and will extend a distance of 4.875 miles.

Work is expected to start on the Maryville-Pickering road soon on the grading and building culverts but it is not definitely known whether the concrete will be poured this year.

St. Louis, August 1.—Road building contracts aggregating $2,320,571, were let yesterday by the Missouri State highway commission for the construction of 120 miles of hard roads in Adair, Macon, Boone, Franklin, Platte, Andrew, Holt, Nodaway, Dunklin, Henry, Lincoln, Linn, Monroe, Oregon, Ozark, Ralls, Scott, Warren and Wright counties.

This brings the road work under contract up to $26,000,000 with the actual construction progressing last week at the rate of $166,666 per day, according to B. Piepmeier, chief engineer.

Piepmeier expects $5,000,000 of road contracts to be let during this month, which will completely expend the $7,500,000 road bonds sold by the state during the past month.

JULY WEATHER OF ALL KINDS

VARIES FROM ARIZONA TO COLORADO TEMPERATURES.

IS FROM 50 TO 104

Missourians Have Something Else To Be Proud Of—Month Is Warmer Than Average.

With Arizona weather the first of the month and Colorado temperatures the last, Missouri during July offered a variety of mercuric variations to suit the most discriminating.

Coming in like a hot blast furnace, the month just closed opened with a temperature of 104 degrees. It ended, however, like an Alaskan breeze which sent the mercury in J. R. Brink's thermometer down to 50 degrees yesterday morning.

A variation of fifty-four degrees in thirty-one days is a good enough record for any state, especially at this time of year.

The average temperature during the month was 77.1 degrees, according to J. R. Brink, official weather observer. This is just a little warmer than the average temperature for July during more than twenty-five years, which is 75.6 degrees.

The hottest July on record here was in 1901, Mr. Brink said, when the readings during the month averaged 84.2 degrees. The coldest on record was in July, 1895, when the average temperature for the month was 70.2.

Precipitation last month was below normal, Mr. Brink said. The total rainfall amounted to 2.46 inches, while the average for July during the time Mr. Brink has been keeping records here is 5.39 inches.

The greatest precipitation for any July on record here was in 1915 when 20.22 inches was recorded. The least was in July, 1917, when only .67 of an inch of rain fell during the thirty-one days.

Clear days predominated last month, there being twenty-one. There were ten cloudy and partly cloudy, Mr. Brink's report shows.

Hollis Holt Injured Is Struck by Auto

Small Boy Is Knocked Down By Car At Fourth And Buchanan Streets Yesterday Afternoon.

Hollis Holt, six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Holt, was struck by the rear fender of a Ford coupe and suffered a severe laceration on his forehead late yesterday afternoon. The forehead was cut to the bone and made a vertical gash about an inch long. Two stitches were taken by the doctor.

The woman that was driving the car drove on and did not stop, according to Bernard Dougan, chief of police. He added, that it might be that she did not know she struck the youngster, who was standing on a center street traffic sign at Fourth and Buchanan and stepped into the rear fender.

Chief of Police Dougan stated that there was a rigid city ordinance which places a fine as high as $500 for a participant in an accident that does not stop and does not report the accident to the police. This oridnance is going to be enforced to the full extent in cases of all accidents.

Hollis and Haldean Holt were returning from town, where they had gone to get a paper. They were crossing the street at the intersection and were standing on the traffic block. The Ford Coupe came around the corner from the east and struck Hollis as he stepped back.

Search for Other Drake Holdup Man

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Spurred on by the posting of rewards totaling $7,000 and by their own desire to make their cleanup of the Drake Hotel holdup and murder 100 per cent perfect, police today extended their search for William Melnechuck, the only one of the five bandits to escape to Michigan in the belief that the fugitive was headed for home haunts in Detroit.

The search centered around Holland, Michigan, following a report by an auto driver who had taken a man who answered the description of Melnechuck from South Haven to Holland.

5 ARE KILLED IN NEW RIOTS

VICTIMS OF SHOTS INCLUDE ENGLISHMAN.

SITUATION IS TENSE

Nanking, Aug. 1.—One Englishman and four Chinese were killed, one Englishman was taken prisoner, and several Chinese were wounded in a new outbreak of rioting here upon the heels of a wage dispute.

The situation is tense. Already the bulk of British residents have been taken aboard warships, and the remainder are being urged to seek this refuge today.

The trouble started after employes of the International Export Co., resented a wage settlement. The employes stormed the company's plant and killed the Englishman. The other Englishmen opened fire and for a time the fighting was hot and furious. It finally was necessary to land a patrol from the British ships to restore order.

The Englishman, who was captured, is held prisoner by the students of Nanking University.

K. C. Persons in Wreck on South Road

Car Is Demolished When It Turns Over Four Miles South of Maryville—Occupants Slightly Injured.

Dr. and Mrs. D. T. Blanford and Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Bower, all of Kansas City and en route on a vacation trip in the North, turned over in a Willys-Knight sedan on the state road four miles south of Maryville. The car was demolished by the accident.

The Kansas City tourists were following a Ford truck on the pavement south of Maryville and turned out to the left to go around the truck. A Ford car was driving in front of the truck and just as the tourists started to pass around this car the Ford turned to the left to go into a farm yard. In order to miss the Ford touring car the Kansas City people turned off the road and ran into a large ditch. The Willys-Knight was reported to have turned completely over before falling into the ditch, which was about ten foot deep. The car was going at a moderate rate of speed.

The four people were brought on into Maryville and their injuries attended to. None of the occupants sustained serious injuries although all received minor cuts and bruises.

Ranchers May Raid Water Supply Again

Los Angeles Reservoir Is Being Guarded By Police and Soldiers Following Reported Threat.

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 1.—Haiwee reservoir at the head of the Los Angeles aqueduct was guarded by armed men today to prevent a feared repetition of violence incident to the water rights controversy between the city of Los Angeles and Owensvalley ranch owners. A detail of Los Angeles police, reinforced by a detachment of ex-service men, was patrolling the rear of the big reservoir under orders of city officials who apparently had been informed that the valley ranchers were planning another demonstration of force similar to the dynamiting of the aqueduct in May, 1924 and the more recent seizure of the aqueduct's head gates.

Those who attended the Chautauqua program this afternoon with intent of being amused or with expectations of being primarily entertained in a less inclusive sense of the word, must have been sorely disappointed.

Dr. Edward Devine's lecture was not intended to provoke laughter, afford mirth or compel hilarity. His subject was "Three Present-Day Revolutionists." The confines of such a subject could hardly embrace much humor.

This is not saying that it was not a worth-while lecture. It was more than that. It was an educational treat. It interested fewer hearers than the evening's entertainment. But those whom it did interest, it interested thoroughly.

The prelude to the afternoon lecture was given by the Misses Margaret Summers and Daizzaire Stampell of the Keigley Company, which is presenting the play this evening. The musical readings by Miss Summers were well received and although light in nature the program as a whole was enjoyed by the chautauqua crowd.

Dr. Devine has been a university instructor. This much was made known to the audience to the introduction of the speaker. He bespoke the fact by his methods and his manner. And the address which he gave was such as would be given a group of students. It was a university lecture. Had his hearers been university students, the comment would have been, "he sure knows his stuff," which would have been another way of saying what was obvious: Dr. Devine is well informed on world affairs and understands presentation of facts.

He used no oratory. He made no appeal to emotions. He employed no rhetorical tools. He understood his purpose, realized the scant information of the average American with regard to present day revolution and set about clearifying and instructing as only a successful professor can. "I'm not here to entertain," he said. "I'm here to promote the painful process of thinking." Having announced his purpose, he set about its accomplishment. And he was successful.

He left his audience thinking of many things. This he accomplished by pointing to the duty of the American citizen of the most powerful, the richest and the most fortunate of present day nations. He contrasted conditions in Europe with those in this country. He presented certain pessimistic facts and then suggested as to a commonsense manner of bettering things. It is our duty, he said, to arrive at a sincere conception of our true place as world citizens. He argued for a proper balance between stability and change, pointed to revolution by force as a product of improper balance, explained more sane revolutionary movements, by force as a product of improper balance, explained more sane revolutionary movements, and then, beginning his message proper, discussed revolutions of today.

He began with Lenin. The Communist, he said, is a product of social and economic revolution. Dr. Devine has spent years in that land of trouble, years in which he learned to appreciate the point of view of the people

President to Brush Elbows With Society

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge To Attend Fashionable Fete Given For Benefit Of Disabled Soldiers.

Swampscott, Mass., Aug. 1.—President Coolidge this afternoon will brush elbows with the aristocratic north shore society set which he has ignored and dodged so far on his vacation.

Weather permitting, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will attend a fashionable fete arranged by the community service of Boston for the benefit of the disabled former service men.

Their stay will be quite brief. The celebration will be held at an inn, a few steps from the entrance to the summer White House.

STORM LOSS INTO MILLION

DETROIT IS PARTLY UNDER WATER AFTER RAINS.

ONE MAN IS DROWNED

Father Attemps To Rescue Invalid Wife And Children—Many Homes Are Ruined.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 1.—Property loss estimated to run into a million dollars, destruction of two bridges, at least one dead and a score of damaged factories remained today in the wake of a heavy rain storm that affected the Detroit region yesterday and last night leaving water standing ten feet deep in some low sections of Detroit.

The storm and rainfall was the heaviest recorded in Michigan in recent times.

One father was drowned in his home in an attempt to save his invalid wife and two children from asphyxiation.

More than 1,000 homes were ruined. Policemen and firemen stood guard beneath viaducts throughout the night to prevent motorists from plunging into the water that would have brought death by drowning.

Detroit's loss to taxpayers alone in ruined pavements and wrecked sewers will run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, city officials estimate.

Bluegrass Production Is Short This Year

Estimated Yield Of Seed Is About 400,000 Bushels—More Stripping Done in This Section.

Jefferson City, Aug. 1.—Missouri bluegrass seed production for 1925 from a 75 per cent condition is estimated at 400,000 pounds of rough-cured seed on 7,143 acres against 450,000 pounds in 1924, according to E. A. Logan of the United States Department of Agriculture and Jewell Mayes of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture today.

The average year's production in the western district, which includes Missouri, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, is 325,000 pounds. More pastures are stripped and more strippers are being operated than ever before but the yield is reduced because of the close pasturing and dry weather preceding harvest.

The average yield is fifty-six pounds per acre, ranging from thirty-five to eighty pounds.

Leading bluegrass counties in Missouri are Gentry, Nodaway, Caldwell, Clay, Clinton, Davies and DeKalb, with scattering yields in other counties.

MINE SUBSIDY DRAWS ATTACK

ALL FACTIONS CRITICIZE PREMIER BALDWIN.

EVEN TORIES HARSH

It Is Estimated Government Guarantee Will Cost Taxpayers About Five Million Per Month.

London, Aug. 1.—Premier Stanley Baldwin today reaped the first fruit of his settlement of the threatened coal miners strike by the promise of a subsidy.

In the storm of criticism which came from all quarters, even some Tories, staunch supporters of the party government, had some sharp things to say about the move.

It is estimated the subsidy, guaranteeing the operators against loss under the old-time wage scales by making up the difference from the wage levels which were proposed, will cost the taxpayers of Great Britain five million dollars every month, which was regarded as the straw added to the already staggering burden borne by the taxpayers.

The strike settlement did not prohibit the Fascist and Communists from making harsh criticism of the government's act in the guarantee of the subsidy to the operators.

Police dispersed a mob and made one arrest.

Body of Chicago Boy Is Found in Lake

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Search for Dwight Tracy, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Atlee Tracy, who had been missing since Monday, ended today when the boy's body was found in Lake Michigan a few blocks from his home.

Two men, who were fishing at the place, noticed a strange reflection in the water and investigating they found it to be the boy's body, badly bruised and partly decomposed. The father was called at once and identified the body as that of his son.

Police say the bruises do not indicate that the child had been murdered. They expressed belief he had fallen into the water and drowned, the bruises being caused by stones along the shore.

Kidnapping Case Is Said to Be Weaker

Defense Will Move Monday To Have Whole Thing Thrown Out of Court—State Is Losing.

Los Angeles, Aug. 1.—With the state's case nearly closed, the defense in the trial of three men charged with plotting to kidnap Mary Pickford, Monday will move to have the whole thing thrown out of court.

During the tiresome grind of the proceedings enlivened only by brief appearances of Miss Pickford, the prosecution has failed to prove that the defendants committed any overt act, according to the contention of their counsel.

After almost a day's wrangling yesterday in which the defense attempted to prevent the foreman of the grand jury which indicted the defendants from testifying, the foreman took the stand and proved a better defense witness than he did for the prosecution, it was agreed.

Telephone wires soon went out of commission and it is reported that nearly half of the city already is in ruins. Calls for help from nearby cities have been sent out and a contingent of fire-fighting apparatus is reported en route from Houston. The population of Liberty is approximately 6,000.

In this instance, as in his following remarks, he afforded a clear view of a history which to those less acquainted with events, is confused, smeared and akin to meaningless.

He next turned to Mussolini, the Italian leader. He explained the advance of that interesting character, the circumstances which made possible his advance and his position today. Mussolini, as Lenin, finds strength in violence, though perhaps to a less marked degree.

In contrast to these two, is Gandhi, the Indian revolutionist. Dr. Devine spoke of that leader with a sense of reverence. The Indian leader has a philosophy similar to that of the Christ in many ways.

Tribute To Bryan.

Before the entertainment last night, Hugh A. Orchard, platform manager, paid a glowing tribute to the life of William Jennings Bryan and characterized him as one of the greatest Americans of the twentieth century. Mr. Bryan's thirty years in public life was a series of battles for causes he believed right, Mr. Orchard pointed out, and in the passing of the Great Commoner, America loses one of its most outstanding characters. At the conclusion of his remarks, the famous Chautauqua salute was given in honor of the memory of Mr. Bryan.

The Ridgeway Entertainers, made up of two artists, were pleasing in their concert last night. The readings were especially good and the costume numbers were well received.

Burgderfer Pleases.

The big Chautauqua tent couldn't hold the steady stream of laughter which the "Apostle of Fun," C. E. Burgderfer, drew from his hearers at the evening program yesterday. It welled upward to the canvas roof filling all space inside and then spread out through side openings and into the street. It was a flood of laughter contributed to by every individual in the big audience. It was laughter unrestrained and unrestrainable. Mr. Burgderfer wasted no time in unlocking it. Before he had reached the front of the platform, following his introduction, he had said enough to provoke indications of what was to come from the audience. And by the time he had made known his purpose, he had accomplished it, for his hearers were contributing loudly and wholeheartedly.

There was no time to think about it while he was talking. But a glance back at the happy evening reveals this rather unusual fact; Mr. Burgderfer managed without employing the suggestiveness which, unfortunately, has become the mainstay of present-day vaudeville comedians, to give an evening of clean humor. It was an evening of good humor which left the audience in good humor.

The funmaker was at his best, perhaps, in his relentless outflow of "tomfoolery." At least, it was at such times that his audience responded to the most marked degree. He spoke humor flavored with philosophy and he spoke philosophy flavored with humor. At times he stepped momentarily from his entertaining role, to point to some great truth. He offered brief readings with exceptional success. He entertained commendably in characterizations. But the high points of the delightful evening were at such times as he stood, fingers nervously engaged in trying to obtain the cuff encasing the wrist above, and talked and said nothing important but much very funny.

To offer a written account of what he said would be unfair to Mr. Burgderfer. Not that he has his fun copyrighted. He probably hasn't. But canned peaches don't afford a proper appreciation of Georgia's early-summer crop. It was not so much what he said as how it was said and by whom it was said, which produced the effect. He put everything he touched upon into a light which made it appear ridiculous.

Hobbies of the Great and Near Great in American National Life

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the eleventh of a series of intimate sketches which reveal the national political figure as a "brother under the skin" to the man behind the plow, the white collar worker or the day laborer. Others will follow.

SENATOR DAVID A. REED.

Delving into the literature of the Middle Ages, Senator David A. Reed (R., of Penn.) has developed a remarkable hobby of collecting rare specimens of early printing.

The Senator has gathered from every corner of the globe scores of original copies of monastic manuscripts and of liturgical books. His collection is said to be one of the best of its kind in the world and to show in intricate detail the development of printing from the laborious inscriptions of medieval monks to the lightning-like product of the modern printing press.

His hobby has led the Senator to collect rare books, first editions of famous medieval authors and the works of unknown monks, who labored for months with quills and the juice of berries to copy litanies and prayers. Some of his monastic manuscripts were used for study in European abbeys for centuries before they came into Reed's possession.

"I am interested in the origin of printing, because, as a kid, I was a printer myself," says Reed. "I even published a small newspaper, and printing was my first love in the field of industry."

Dislikes Golf.

The Senator is extremely energetic, and for recreation he is fond of tennis, but he has little use for golf, which he looks upon as a less active and more deliberate sport.

He also goes in for horseback riding. The Senator also likes hunting, and once a year he can be found on a duck-hunting expedition to the marshes and woods of North Carolina.

Reed is a skilled marksman. He served throughout the World War as a major in the Three Hundred and Eleventh Field Artillery, which saw heavy service for two years in France. Prior to the war he was actively interested in the Pennsylvania National Guard, and in 1916 he made the highest score in the national rifle-range matches. The Senator, shooting on the National Guard range at Pittsburgh, smashed out 245 bull's-eyes out of a possible 250.

Forceful Speaker.

In debate, the Senator is a marksman, too. He seldom speaks but when he does he hits right to the subject. It is said among his colleagues that if every Senator debated as Reed does there would be no need for Vice-President Dawes's campaign to amend the Senate's rules. Reed never prepares an address either, nor does he refer to notes except to obtain correct statistics. He probably is one of the Senate's best extemporaneous speakers.

For entertainment the Senator is a devotee of the opera and appreciates music in all forms. He is an expert mandolin player and is in the highest state of bliss when playing to Mrs. Reed's piano accompaniment.

Reed's war experiences have resulted in a habit which demonstrates his kindly heart and his warm friendship for those who fought beside him in France. Every Christmas he sends a basket of fruit and cigarettes to all the Pennsylvania boys in the Walter Reed Hospital, in Washington. The crippled veterans know they have a friend in Dave Reed, of Pennsylvania.

Liberty, Tex. Swept by Damaging Blaze

Liberty, Tex., Aug. 1.—The business district of this city of approximately 6,000 persons was virtually wiped out by fire today. The blazes started in the J. O. Mill grain store and swept down Main street consuming everything in its path.

All telephone communication was cut off at 11:30 o'clock this morning. Aid, however, was summoned from surrounding cities and apparatus was reported on its way from Houston.

At 1:45 o'clock this afternoon, the flames had apparently burned themselves out and were under control.

No estimate has been placed on the loss yet, but it will run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, authorities believe. First reports made no mention of anyone injured.

It's all in the way you look at things. An editor says its tough to pay fifty cents for a steak but its tougher at twenty-five.

OVERLAND SIX
Price Reductions

Standard Sedan NOW $895

De Luxe Sedan NOW $1095

Prices F.O.B. Toledo

If there be an epidemic of price-cutting in the industry, Overland is not concerned with it. For never will Overland be a party to any policy that involves the cutting of prices to a figure necessitating a proportionate cut in quality. ¶ The reason—and the ONLY reason—Overland Six prices are now reduced is because we are selling twice the number of these fine cars we had planned. ¶ This means huge savings in our purchases, huge savings in manufacturing. ¶ Therefore, to keep our sales volume at this satisfactory level, these economies are now passed on to you. Before you buy any car in this price class, don't be stampeded. ¶ Shop carefully around. Investigate all moderate-priced Sixes. Then, check your findings against this big Overland Six. ¶ As an experienced owner you must then admit that never before, for as little as $895, have you been offered so much of quality and of value in any automobile.

What Tom Says

Sing a song of sixpence,
Is Jerry full of rye?
He used to go on horseback,
But now he goes on high.
To see him rushing through the street
You'd take him for a winner;
You needn't try to catch him,
He's on his way to dinner.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—A sharp advance in wheat had strengthening effect on other grains in today's session of the Board of Trade. Extremely light offerings caused shorts to bid up prices in wheat.

Corn was comparatively quiet. An early decline brought in good commission house support, and the market rallied along with wheat.

Oats trade was narrow. The close was comparatively firm.

Provisions trade was weakened in profit taking by leading export houses.

"Heinie" Buhler Aspires for a Strike Record

"Heinie" Buhler threatens to change his nick name to "Dazzy" Buhler in the baseball tilt between the Barmann Mechanics and the Maryville Merchants.

Buhler, the moundsman for the Merchants, predicted this morning that he would whiff the ball past at least eighteen of the Fordite batters. The major league record is held by "Dazzy" Vance of Brooklyn who fanned seventeen men in one game. Big league scouts will profit by watching the Maryville pitcher in action Sunday if he holds good to his boast.

The Barmann management still maintains that Wiederholt will go to the mound for the Barmann team despite the fact that loyal supporters of the Maryville Merchant team state that a foreign hurler will pitch for the Fords.

With the city championship and the entire gate receipts at stake a battle from start to finish is evident. The game will start at 3 o'clock and will be played on the old fairgrounds.

Captain Meyers of the Merchants said this afternoon that extra workouts have been held by the Merchants and that the entire team is confident of a one-sided score. Buhler has been shooting his curves and fast balls over the plate in a zippy fashion and apparently should pitch the best game of his season.

The Ford Mechanics have a rattling good team and are going to ramble all over the bases, according to their captain.

BRYAN POINTED BETTER WAY

DR. SIZOO TELLS WHY HE ENTERED MINISTRY.

"GOD'S WAYS STRANGE"

"But With God, There Is No Unfinished Life," Minister Says At Funeral Of Great Commoner.

"Some years ago—it seems like yesterday—Mr. Bryan delivered a lecture to a group of some five hundred students in a midwestern college. His theme was "The Value of An Ideal." He spoke with that amazing clarity which so characterized all his addresses not only of the place of an ideal in life, but also of the various ideals which men may hold, and then that highest of all ideals—Christion service.

Tells of Effect on One.

"How profoundly he moved that group of young men Mr. Bryan never knew. There was one student in that audience for whom it changed the whole program of his life. This student was a freshman at college that year with the plan of preparing for some professional career. The plea for Christian service, made by this great heart of faith, never left him and, following that urge, he later entered the Christian ministry. I was that student. That stirring plea marked the beginning of a whole new attitude of life and I bring my testimony to the memory of a man who never knew how greatly he had changed that life. Surely it is unique that as he lies here dead among us, I should bear my witness to his influence in this most solemn hour.

"But God Willed It So."

"How strange are the ways of God and how otherwise from our desires Had it been given to us to control the affairs of life, how different would it have been. Earth can ill spare such noble souls. His ability was so striking; his sincerity was so genuine; his personality was so winsome and his faith so serene that we had hoped to have him longer with us. We seem to need him so. But God willed otherwise; and until the daybreak when shadows flee away we reverently kneel in submission to pray, 'Father, Thy will be done.'

"The end came quickly. He did not suffer; he did not know pain. A merciful Providence guarded over that hour. Serenely and in the home of a friend he made his last venture of faith on the first day of the week, which, to the Christian, is the unforgettable symbol of the resurrection.

"Prayers of Nation Go Out."

"To this broken family circle, whose days have so suddenly and sadly turned to sorrow and loneliness, the sympathy and the prayers of the nation go out. We commend them to the good Shepherd who keepeth watch over His own. 'We cannot trace the way where the Almighty One doth move, but we can always say that God is love.' He is too great to fail us now and He is too good to let us drift alone. You sorrow not alone. Somehow you must be sustained by the innumerable prayers of the people of the land who are kneeling today at the hearthstone of your broken home. When the golden bowl is broken and the silver cord is loosed, we pause; we wonder; we weep, but God doeth all things well and you may abide in the promise that underneath and round about you are His everlasting arms.

No Unfinished Life.

"We talk about unfulfilled dreams and incomplete lives and broken circles; but with God there is no unfinished life and there are no broken circles. Jesus—dead at 33—cried out exultantly from the cross: 'It is finished!' So is every life that follows God's will. When is a life finished, you ask? When the seeds of its influence have dropped into the lives of others, enriching them. A life is finished when other lives are lit up by it and walk in its strength. A life is finished when those around it have caught the splendor of its power and live happier, nobler and truer. If that is true, then this great heart lived a finished life. The heritage of that life it may take long to measure. Multitudes have caught the splendor of it and have lived by its guiding light.

"It is to rehearse this splendor that we have come today. Praise or blame do not affect now. They never disturbed his convictions. He was far above all that on earth and he is far beyond all that now. Nothing we say or do can in any way add or detract from him. It is for us to see again the glory of that life and heed its heritage.

"A Three-Fold Splendor."

"There was a three-fold splendor about this noble man which will ever challenge those who have lived in his day and who are to carry on in the days to come.

"1. He had a capacity for noble living. He was a man with an upturned face and an upward life. His life was an open book beyond all possible reproach. His character was unsullied to the very end. You can turn the searching light of a critical publicity on any page of his past through all manner of personal and political fortunes of later life and not one page is smutted or soiled or stained. There was no shadow of self-seeking or gain in him. There was no skeleton in the closet.

"Oh, all you who mourn and are left stranded upon the shores of time, what a comfort and what a heritage is yours. Death takes many things from us. Truly it is a great destroyer. But one thing, thank God, death can never take away from you, and that is the imperishable memory of his fine manliness, courage and humble sincerity. He did not live in vain. Thousands are made better because he passed this way.

"He Was A Great Friend."

"2. He had a deep capacity for love. He was a great friend and never played fast and loose with friendship. Some men are not big enough to have friends because they are not big enough to be friends, but not so with him. Political opposition never lost him personal friendship. His love was genuine with rich and poor alike, it knew no border, breed or birth. Differing from men who held contrary convictions, he still held them within the grasp of life-long affections.

"But his capacity for love reached beyond the border of the individual. He did not live like a star apart from his fellow men. He always spoke with and of and for the people. He was not only an architect, but also the builder of a better world. He never lost sight of humanity.

"3. He had a rich capacity for faith. Any summary of the heritage of his life, however brief, would be utterly unworthy if it did not bear witness to his unfaltering faith in God. He was not disillusioned about the world. He knew its ills and its failures. He was acquainted with its griefs and its heartburnings; he saw its anguish and wan hopelessness. He saw all this but he also saw that the way out was not by some strange hysterical solution. How often he said that happiness will be restored, prosperity will beat again with its angel wings and peace will come with its eternal abiding, when men come back to the simple elemental forces of life like honesty, reverence and faith in God. Nothing else explains the greatness of the man like the greatness of his faith. That was unchallengeable, irresistible and burned with a quenchless fire.

Life An Unbroken Prayer.

"His life was shot through and through with every utterance of his there welled up this constant assurance. His life seemed to be a long unbroken prayer, like his Christ, who, with a scarlet cape humble thing contemptuously across his shoulder, crowned with a crown of thorns, carrying his cross to an outlaw's grave, held constantly to the assurance of His Father's presence, so this noble man unto the very end of the day in success and defeat lived with an unfaltering faith in a God who never disappointed him. His hope was eternal and his faith was serene.

"Some day perhaps we may see that that was his great contribution to life and the final heritage that he has come to leave. He has rebuilt the altar of faith in God and covered that altar with his very life. It was faith that gave such sweep to his helpful service, such depth to his character."
